DESCRIPTION

Day 1: When Nothing Works: Strategies for Supporting 'Those Challenging Kids'

THOSE CHALLENGING KIDS

Intended for community members working directly with traumatized youth.

Fee | Free

The ISST-D is dedicated to the education and training of professionals and community members in Complex Trauma and Dissociation. For this reason, the ISST-D Alaska Regional Component Group is sponsoring a full-day workshop at no cost for community members who have supportive roles in the lives of children suffering from the effects of complex trauma. The workshop, "When Nothing Works: Strategies for Supporting 'Those Challenging Kids,'" is designed for residential staff and managers, case managers, foster parents, and child welfare staff. This presentation will focus on providing insight into the day to day complex mental health and management needs of traumatized children and adolescents. Early, multiple, and chronic traumas as well as pre-verbal trauma, disrupted attachment and dissociation, and dissociative disorders will be addressed. Niki will provide theoretical knowledge, clinical approaches, and detailed techniques, for those who provide care, effective in managing high-risk traumatized children and youth.

*Late Registration | 8:00am-8:30am-based on space available-limited to 50 participants

**Coffee and snacks will be provided throughout the day

Day 2: Attachment Focused Trauma Treatment: Treating Complex Trauma, Attachment Disruption and Dissociation

Intended for clinicians and graduate students

Fee | $125 (CEUs included)

This workshop is for therapists. "Attachment Focused Trauma Treatment: Treating Complex Trauma, Attachment Disruption, and Dissociation," is a one-day workshop for clinicians working with traumatized youth and their families. This workshop will provide theoretical knowledge, clinical approaches, and specific techniques which are indispensable in treating these challenging high-risk young clients. It will combine recent knowledge, research, and theories in developmental traumatology providing a treatment approach to determine direction and order with flexibility to adapt to "real clients in the real world", regardless of their trauma and attachment histories, family and living situations, or difficulties engaging in supportive therapeutic relationships.

*Late Registration | 8:00am-8:30am-based on space available-limited to 50 participants

**Coffee and snacks will be provided throughout the day

CEUs:

6 CEUs | approval anticipated | Day 2 only**

*6 CEU requested through Alaska Board of Social Work Examiners and Alaska Board of Marital and Family Therapy

Day 3: Clinical Case Consultation

Intended for clinicians who attend day 2 (must pre-register)

Fee | $50

Meet the Presenter:

Veronica “Niki” Gomez-Perales, M.S.W., R.S.W., is an expert in the areas of children's mental health, complex trauma, attachment and dissociation. She has more than 25 years of experience in the fields of child welfare and children's mental health.
